The Saskatoon Public Schools Board of Education has officially approved the name Holmwood Collegiate for the division's new secondary school in Saskatoon's northeast. (SPS School Map)

The name was approved at the board's final meeting of the 2025-26 school year yesterday evening (June 16).

The provincial government announced funding for the new school in March 2024. Holmwood Collegiate will be located in the Holmwood area, adjacent to the Brighton neighbourhood, and will share a site with a new Catholic high school. A future City of Saskatoon leisure centre is also planned nearby.

The name was informed by public and student engagement conducted this spring. From May 1-19, Saskatoon Public Schools gathered feedback through a public survey and engagement activities involving Grades 4, 5, and 6 students from feeder schools—many of whom are expected to attend Holmwood Collegiate when it opens.

“Choosing a name for a new school is an important milestone,” says Kim Stranden, Chair of the Saskatoon Public Schools Board of Education. “We’re grateful to everyone who took the time to share their ideas and perspectives.”

The project is currently in the design phase. Pending government approvals, construction is expected to begin next year, with the school welcoming its first students in approximately four to five years.

Saskatoon Public Schools thanks all students, families, staff, and community members who contributed to the naming process.
